No Limit on Missile Sales to Britain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain made public today an agreement under which Britain will buy U.S. Polaris missiles in such quantities as it requires to equip an under-seas nuclear striking force.

The agreement was signed here Saturday by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Ambassador Sir David Ormsby Gore. It was made public concurrently with its presentation to Parliament by the British government.

The text did not specify the number of the missiles to be sold to Britain but officials said that as far as can now be seen it will be up to 100, depending on Britain's construction program.

The fact that the agreement had been signed had been disclosed Saturday but terms were withheld at that time.

U.S. authorities have understood the British planned to build four missile-carrying subs for which they would require 16 Polaris missiles each. The size of the nuclear undersea fleet could be larger than that eventually, however, authorities said.

Britain, according to the agreement, will pay the U.S. "the normal cost of missiles and equipment based on common contract prices" plus charges for U.S. government services, plus 5 per cent of the contract price as a contribution to current research and development expenses.

Bookkeepers of Tomorrow Visit City

If you were shocked at seeing all the young businessmen in Hope, Monday, don't be upset. The bookkeeping students of Mrs. Betty Beasley and office practice students of Mrs. Mary Nell Turner were having their day. These young business men and women visited local merchants to learn how they operate their businesses.

This day opened at eyes of many students who thought their fathers just sat in his office all day with his feet propped on his desk. This was soon discovered as untrue by the boys who came to the Star office. They were sent scrambling all over town picking up ads and digging for news tips. And that ain't all. One of those poor unfortunate boys just finished writing this article.

Rural Mailmen Plan Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold M. Hinks, chief of postmasters and the Rural Appointments Division of the Post Office Department, will be principal speaker at Fort Smith and Fayetteville when new mail delivery systems are installed.

The Accelerated Business Collection and Delivery service is to be installed at both cities April 17. Under it, a letter mailed in the business area by 11 a.m. would be delivered by 3 p.m. the same day.

Money Saving Could Cut Efficiency

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said today Navy testimony indicates that the effort to save money by designing the TFX warplane for both the Air Force and Navy may result in a "sacrifice of weaponry effectiveness."

McClellan heads the Senate Investigations subcommittee in a many-sided probe of the awarding of the contract to design, develop and produce the TFX as a multi-purpose new weapons system for both services.

Primarily the subcommittee is exploring whether favoritism influenced award of the contract to the General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex. Military evaluation boards had decided that a rival design from the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash., promised a better, cheaper plane.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who overruled the boards, has denied heatedly that any consideration but merit entered the decision. He contended the General Dynamics version would prove superior and less costly in the long run. He predicted TFX as a weapons system for the Air Force and Navy could save a billion dollars over the costs of separate systems for each service.

McClellan contended much of the saving would stem from the "commonality" or interchangeability of parts between Air Force TFX and the lighter Navy version which Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, said is still heavier than the Navy requested.

McClellan, in an interview said: "I think the testimony of Adm. Anderson certainly carries the implication, if not the statement, that operational effectiveness and weaponry quality have been compromised in order to achieve so-called commonality."

"That raises the question of what price has been paid in the sacrifice of weaponry effectiveness for commonality."

The subcommittee is in recess and has not announced when it will resume the hearings.

Easter Is Significant to All Men

This is the first of a series by local ministers on the significance of Easter.

Surely there is no day in the Christian Calendar that has great significance than Easter Sunday. For it was on the day symbolized by this Sunday that our Lord, Jesus Christ arose from the grave and came forth to announce His victory over death.

The Beauty and Religious Significance of this Easter Sunday is beyond measure and must be evaluated by each human heart to which it speaks. Certainly, for those who have suffered loss of loved ones in recent days it should speak volumes, for it gives them assurance that their loss is but a temporary one, and that their loved ones have found the Eternal beyond the grave.

For those who have undergone injustice and apparent defeat it speaks reassuringly, for it tells of the victory of righteousness and truth and justice over the apparent victory of injustice and evil.

In as much as the date of the Sunday is a variable one, it might be of interest to note that it is the first Sunday after the first full moon, after the twenty-first day of March.

Homecoming Sun. at Bethel Church

The Rev. Johnnie Darr, Pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church, located on Highway 29 East of Blview, announced Easter Sunday as Homecoming Day at the Church.

Everyone is invited to the special services in the morning, basket lunch at noon, and singing in the afternoon.

There will be an egg hunt for the children.

Business Students Gain Experience

Bookkeeping, journalism and business students at Hope High School spent Tuesday gaining first hand information by working in downtown businesses and offices. The Star had five today, one for journalism, one for bookkeeping, one for advertising and two mechanical. Left to right in the photo are the students who spent the day working at the Star: John Whitten, Charles Beggs, Janet Terrell, Phil Camp and Kenneth Grant.

DISPERSED — Police officers in Birmingham, Ala., using dogs, dispersed a crowd of 600 Negroes after a prayer meeting protesting segregation was halted quickly. Twenty-five Negroes were arrested.

CHECKED — As Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker stopped to chat with newsmen during a stroll in his hometown of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, a friendly canine, answering to the name of "Freckles," checked to see who it was that was invading his territory. Diefenbaker was home to vote in the Federal elections.

MEMPHIS (AP) — A check by the Police Department here of pistols carried by officers has shown that 14 of some 200 guns examined wouldn't shoot because chrome plating used to dress up the weapons got into the mechanism, jamming it.

Mary E. Hardee Dies in Texas

Mary Ellen Hardee, 80, died Monday at her home in Waxahatchie, Tex. She was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors included one son, J. I. Hardee, Hope and one sister, Mrs. A. H. Bennett, Waxahatchie, Texas. Six grand children and several great grand children. Services at 2 p.m. in Oakcrest Chapel with Dr. George Balentine officiating. Burial in Eyleson Cemetery near Texarkana with Oakcrest Funeral Home in charge.

Survivor of Wilderness Back Home

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP)—Pilot Ralph Flores, survivor of seven weeks in the frozen Yukon wilderness, was back home in San Bruno today with his wife, his six children and his literary agent.

Flores arrived at San Francisco International Airport Sunday from Salt Lake City, Utah. He was greeted by 20 relatives, newspaper and television cameramen and reporters anxious for information about the ordeal of the 42-year-old pilot and pretty Brooklyn model Helen Klaben, 21, after their plane crashed.

Wald Marra identified himself as Ralph's agent and controlled the brief news conference. "They have sold their story to the Saturday Evening Post," said Marra, who reported the fee was in five figures.

Flores said he and Miss Klaben weren't fighting over possession of a reported diary of the adventure. "I can't tell you anything about that," he added. "I can't tell you where it is."

Someone asked whether the model actually called him "daddy-o." "She called me daddy," he replied.

"He was her father," added his 33-year-old wife, Teresa. "And she was his daughter. That's all."

Another Grant for University

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Science Foundation granted $27,800 Monday to the University of Arkansas for an in-service mathematics institute, to be conducted in five cities.

Dr. William R. Orton of the university's mathematics department will direct the institute, with classes to be held in Magnolia, Fort Smith, Batesville, Fayetteville and Little Rock.

The institute will be for 120 junior and senior high school students during the 1963-64 academic year.

Liberals Gain Control in Canadian Vote

By BEN BASSETT

TORONTO (AP) — Lester B. Pearson's Liberals re-emerged today as Canada's leading political party, but just short of a clear majority in the House of Commons.

Prime minister John G. Diefenbaker, although in effect repudiated in Monday's election, indicated he will hold on to the top job as long as he can. It appeared however, that he must eventually turn over the prime ministry to Pearson.

With only four seats outstanding in the tabulation of results, the Liberals had 126 seats in the House of Commons, seven less than the 133 that means command over all opposition parties in Parliament.

The Conservatives had 94 seats, the Social Credit party 24 and the New Democrats 17.

Conservatives were ahead in three, the Liberals in one of the districts yet to report final results. Thus the Liberals seemed to have no chance of the 133 majority unless they could pull some magic out of overseas returns from service men which are to be announced next weekend.

By the usual procedure, the party gaining most seats names the prime minister. That would put Pearson, at 65, in line to take over the leadership he failed to win in two previous attempts, 1958 and 1962.

Diefenbaker said he will confer with his Cabinet but indicated he intends to take advantage of his right to hold on until the new Parliament lines up by parties, perhaps in six weeks.

A call for Diefenbaker's retirement as leader of the Conservative party came from Douglas Harkness, who quit as Diefenbaker's defense minister in this winter's dispute over acquisition of nuclear warheads.

Harkness, a Conservative who has won seven times in his Alberta district, said "After this election it is apparent a leadership convention will be in order."

Further opposition to Diefenbaker within the party is bound to come as a result of Monday's showing. Some party stalwarts wanted to oust him during his defense crisis which ignited Diefenbaker's resignation.

Ministers Against Sunday Circus

The Hope Ministerial Alliance, at its regular monthly meeting on April 9, went on record as opposing the scheduling of any circus, carnival, or similar attraction to appear in the City of Hope on any Sunday of the Calendar year.

The Alliance wishes to emphasize the fact that they are heartily in favor of any form of entertainment that is wholesome and makes the proper appeal to all members of a family.

There is certainly no objection to the form of entertainment which is being considered. However, we do feel that the Lord's Day has been set aside as a day of Worship and Training in Spiritual Truths, and we oppose the introduction of anything that tends to interfere with this objective.

U.S. Jury Goes Into Session

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The United States Grand Jury for the Western District of Arkansas went into session again here today.

The jury adjourned after meeting briefly Monday to submit an interim report to federal district judge John E. Miller. There was no word on what the report contained.

The jury met for a week last month and handed down 20 routine indictments. It reportedly discussed income tax, auto theft and other cases.

Word Twisting in Ban Talks Laid to Russia

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

GENEVA (AP) — The United States today accused the Soviet Union of supporting its argument on the issue of nuclear test ban inspections by twisting the words of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

"We hope that in future meetings we will not be treated to such tactics," U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle told the 17-nation disarmament conference. Humphrey said on March 7 there would be about 12 "most suspicious" earth tremors a year in the Soviet Union. Last week Soviet Delegate Zemyon K. Tsarapkin cited this statement in arguing that the U.S. demand for seven inspections a year was excessive under a treaty banning nuclear tests.

Stelle said Humphrey was referring only to tests of weapons with the explosive equivalent of more than 19,000 tons of TNT. But Stelle added that the test ban control and inspection system is meant to prevent clandestine tests down to an explosive equivalent of 2,000 to 6,000 tons.

Cleanup Has Started Around Town

The chamber of commerce clean up campaign is under way, having been kicked off with a paper up by the hand boosters and a parade in downtown Hope.

The state chamber of commerce has released a story regarding the Arkansas community development contest in which Hope is entered in towns of 5 to 10,000. Haskell Jones, Chamber President, says he is well pleased with the number of entrants in the cleanup contest. Altogether 4 home owners are entered and competing for the trophies and $50.00 cash offered by Hope Federal Savings and Loan.

Many downtown merchants are getting the spirit of the campaign and are painting and redecorating stores and buildings this month and there are reports that still more will start refurbishing and beautifying very shortly. The chamber committee would like very much to see 50 houses painted this month to give us a big boost in the state contest. Low income families are urged to inquire at the chamber about the mass painting work done by Don Montgomery for $50.00 per house including paint. Call the Chamber of Commerce office for details.

Revival at 1st Baptist in Progress

"The most effective witnessing for Christ is done daily, and not on Sunday or the revival season," the Rev. Glynn McCalman told a 6:30 a.m. prayer breakfast of the Men of First Baptist Church today.

Jesus said: "Deny yourself, take up your cross and follow me," the evangelist pointed out, and that means not only on Sunday, but daily.

The scheduled sermon topic for 7:30 tonight will be the story of the prodigal son of Biblical days as compared to juvenile delinquency of modern times.

He spoke Monday night on "Seek the Lord and Live" in which he related the story of Amos and his effective preaching 2007 years ago at the Church of Bethel.

Gilbert Thomas, music and educational director, is leading the singing and is also bringing the nightly solos.

Victory Home Demonstration Club will have a bake sale at the corner of 2nd and Main Streets Saturday in the building formerly occupied by Herbert Burns store.

An Easter Egg hunt for pupils of the Primary Department 3, First Baptist Church, will be held Friday April 2, at 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. M. S. Bates, 1510 South Elm.

SEATO Told Viet Nam Pact Is Working

By PATRICK MCNULTY

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the United States and South Viet Nam governments have made important strides in their efforts to control Communist subversion in that Southeast Asian country.

Rusk, speaking in a closed session of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization Ministerial Council, said the U.S. government and the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem are hopeful that the worst is over in their fight against Viet Cong guerrillas.

Conference sources said Rusk again expressed concern over the situation in Laos, where neutralist forces are under heavy pro-Communist pressure in the Plaine des Jarres region.

Rusk took the occasion to express the great importance of Thailand's membership in the eight-nation SEATO defense pact.

Elaborating on the speech, conference sources said Rusk had described the Laos situation as very critical. They quoted him as saying the first objective is to stop the fighting and they learn more of what is going on there.

The council was to go into the Laotian situation and its threat to neighboring Thailand in detail at another closed-door session this afternoon. The prospect that the pro-Communist Pathet Lao would take over all of northern Laos made the situation in the adjoining Southeast Asian kingdoms the major item before the council.

Monday Rusk urged all signers of the Geneva agreement "to prevent further aggravation of the situation."

The signers include the Soviet Union and Communist China. British Foreign Secretary Lord Home told the ministerial council that his ambassador in Moscow, Sir Humphrey Trevelyan, has been in close contact with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on the situation.

Britain and the Soviet Union conference. They had their respective chairmen of the Geneva sentatives in Laos appeal to all parties for restraint.

One side effect of the SEATO meeting was an apparent warming up on French relations with Britain and the United States.

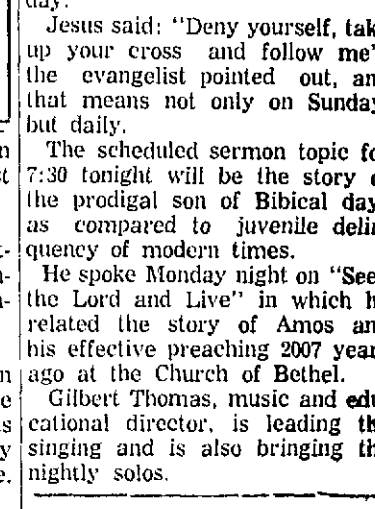

Rusk conferred with President Charles de Gaulle in what was described as a cordial atmosphere. It was the first such high level French-American meeting since De Gaulle spurned President Kennedy's offer of Polaris missiles for French submarines as a start toward a NATO nuclear force.

Lord Home saw French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville for the first time since France blocked Britain's bid for entry into the Common Market.

The British and Americans had another difficulty. Pakistan, a SEATO member, was reported taking a stand-offish attitude at the meeting because of arms aid to India by the two powers.

JFK Has Had 2nd Thoughts About Cuba

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has had some second thoughts—and third ones, too—on Cuba.

He has been most consistent in holding out hope for Cuban refugees that their homeland will be freed. But he has remained vague on how the freedom would be won.

While at one time he talked of using only radio, television, the press and moral power against Cuba, he later backed an invasion.

At one time he was against boxing in the refugees, but now he's boxing them in.

The evolution, and the changes, in his thought can be traced by starting with his statements in the campaign.

On Oct. 15 that year he said: "We must end the harassment which this government has carried on of liberty-loving anti-Castro forces in Cuba and other lands."

"We must recognize these exiles and rebels represent the real voice of Cuba and should not be constantly handicapped by our immigration and Justice Department authorities."

Five days later he was saying: "We must attempt to strengthen the non-Batista democratic anti-Castro forces in exile, and in Cuba itself, who offer eventual hope of overthrowing Castro. Thus far these fighters for freedom have had virtually no support from our government."

What did this mean: Raids? An invasion?

It wouldn't seem so from what he said Oct. 23, 1960: "I have stated that whatever we did with regard to Cuba should be within the confines of international law."

He explained that what he advocated was using radio, television, the press and the "moral power of the American government" to let the "forces of freedom in Cuba know we believe freedom will again rise in their country."

Then the opposite happened. On April 17, 1961, the American-backed invasion by Cuban refugees at the Bay of Pigs began. It collapsed four days later. Fidel Castro threw about 1,200 of the invaders in jail. On April 24 Kennedy took full responsibility for the United States' role in the fiasco.

Kennedy didn't try that again. An other crisis came last fall when Soviet Premier Khrushchev put his missiles into Cuba. Kennedy forced ashore down. Khrushchev pulled his missiles out. There was a kind of national sigh of relief. Before the end of 1962, Castro, for ransom, freed over 1,100 of the Bay of Pigs invaders. They returned to Miami and Kennedy gave a speech to them last Dec. 29.

It was full of hope about the eventual freedom of Cuba and completely blank on when and how. Kennedy made no promise of American help for another invasion. The most he did was predict freedom.

This year Congress got concerned about the presence of Soviet troops in Cuba. There weren't enough of them to invade the Americas. Their presence meant primarily two things.

Khrushchev now had a base in the Americas. And any invasion by refugees or anyone else, since it almost certainly would involve the Russians, might lead to war with Russia.

But the refugees, who have their headquarters in Miami, got busy although it still isn't clear whether they took off from this country or somewhere else.

They began making raids on Cuba and hit Russian ships. If this continued, and the Russians and Castroites retaliated, this could lead to ugly things, too.

Last Thursday something happened that looked like retaliation although Castro apologized for it Tuesday. Two MIGs from Cuba fired around an American

Policy Crisis in Kremlin Is Evident

EDITORS NOTE—Domestic and international troubles are piling up on the Kremlin. John M. Hightower, AP diplomatic affairs writer, reviews the situation and reports on how U.S. officials view it in broad policy terms.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The shadowy outlines of a policy crisis in the Kremlin have cast a deep uncertainty over the future development of Soviet relations with the United States and the outside world in general.

The best-informed U.S. officials discount reports abroad that Premier Khrushchev is in serious political trouble, faced with tough opposition inside the Soviet ruling group. So far as can be judged from here, he is still the dominant wielder of power in Moscow.

Yet the accumulation of troubles with which the Soviet government is now beset, including the long and serious argument with Red China, is a condition for which Khrushchev as the leader of the government and the Communist party must take major responsibility. This could lead to personal difficulties for him.

In broad policy terms, authorities here see the present period in Moscow as one of great indecision, and the question which concerns them is what the trend of Soviet policy will be when the time of debate over various possible courses of action comes to an end.

The brief period of seeking friendlier relations with the United States, which began in the aftermath of the Cuban crisis last fall when Khrushchev was playing out his chosen role of savior of the peace, has long since ended. It has been succeeded in East-West relations by a period of stalemate with evidence of Soviet stalling on such issues as Berlin, Cuba and disarmament.

Within the Communist block there is a kind of slow-motion sparring between Moscow and Peking over proposals to restore some degree of unity, but with results which so far are unpredictable.

But Khrushchev's difficulties range far beyond his quarrel with the Red Chinese and his obvious efforts to reassert Soviet leadership throughout the Communist bloc. Probably the most serious problems he faces are those concerned with promoting agricultural production and stimulating industrial expansion. After 10 years of growth, Soviet industry has leveled off. The chronic farm crisis is probably as bad now as it was a decade ago when Khrushchev's difficulties began.

Then, to make sure the refugees didn't use American bases for future raids, Kennedy cracked down on them. Last Saturday the State and Justice Departments said the United States would "take every step necessary" to see that refugees didn't use American bases.

The statement indicated intensified action by the Coast Guard, FBI, and immigration and customs services, an action which recalled Kennedy's 1960 complaint against handicapping the refugees.

On Sunday a Justice Department spokesman said 18 Cubans in Florida had been restricted to the Miami area. The British, co-operating with the United States, grabbed a refugee raider and its crew of 17 in the Bahamas.

Connor Is a Real Storm Politically

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Eugene Connor wears his nickname "Bull" with pride. Standing on a sidewalk yelling for dogs to halt Negro demonstrations—his eyes flashing—he is one of Alabama's stormiest political figures.

He is an ardent segregationist and public safety commissioner at Birmingham, which finds itself caught up in mushrooming racial troubles.

He has vowed to fill Birmingham's jail with integrationists. Since racial demonstrations began last Wednesday, 96 Negroes have been jailed.

Connor, 62, appears to be anybody's grandfather. He becomes stern in the face of racial difficulties.

He got his nickname because of the booming voice he used in announcing baseball games for a Birmingham radio station more than 20 years ago.

A demonstration last Saturday flared into violence for about 15 seconds—the length of time it took Connor and policemen with dogs to rush into a crowd of about 200.

"If they want to go to jail, we'll put 'em there. Give 'em what they want. That's our motto."

Connor's white supremacist fervor attracted national attention in 1948 when he stalked out of the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia, leading half the Alabama delegation after debate on a civil rights plank in the party platform.

In 1950, Connor had former Sen. Glenn Taylor of Idaho jailed for violating a segregation law in a Birmingham visit. The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in Connor's favor.

"The mystery of the whole situation is how can these simple home folks be talked into going to jail by a bunch of rabble-rousers?" he said.

"That's what they're doing—talking the people into jail. Then the leaders sit back, take it easy and plan who they're going to talk into jail next."

Tackett Made Special Judge for 4 Cases

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Boyd Tackett, a Texarkana attorney and former congressman, was named as a special state Supreme Court judge today to hear four 1958 segregation laws.

Appointment of a special judge was necessary because Associate Justice Frank Holt disqualified himself in the case.

Tackett, 51, was named by Gov. Orval E. Faubus. He said the governor telephoned him last night.

Tackett said he was not familiar with the laws under consideration and that he had no previous experience with segregation legislation. He said he would pick up briefs in the case today and take them home for study.

Tackett served two terms in Congress, leaving to run for governor in 1962. He was a state legislator in 1937-39 and prosecuting attorney in the 9th Judicial Circuit in 1941-45.

The Supreme Court had set the case involving segregation laws for oral arguments Monday, but postponed it because the special judge had not been appointed. The date for oral arguments will be re-set.

In dispute are acts to: Allow a county judge to require an organization whose activities tend to interfere with the operation of public schools to register and disclose its membership and finances.

Empower the attorney general to get a chancery court order and examine an organization's records and finances if he has reason to believe the organization is trying to evade state taxes.

Make it illegal to instigate law suits over school desegregation. Make it illegal to solicit money to help start or maintain court actions over school desegregation.

Broyles to Slow Practice Pace

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Football coach Frank Broyles said the Arkansas football team might go through a game-type scrimmage here today.

Broyles called off a scrimmage session on the third day of spring practice Monday, saying the team had not progressed well enough on fundamentals.

"We carried them too fast last week," he said. "We've been working too much as units and not enough with individuals."

He said films probably would be made of today's session. Broyles assayed films of last Saturday's workouts and said the team looked bad in general. He said top blocking and tackling grades went to Ronnie Caveness of House, Tex., Buddy Tackett of Little Rock, Jerry Lamb of Houston, Tex., and Mike Hales of Little Rock.

He virtually took personal control of agricultural policy.

baker's defeat on a vote of confidence in the House of Commons Feb. 5. That brought on Monday's election.

Diefenbaker, who keeps his strategy close to his vest, was somewhat cryptic as he discussed election results with reporters.

Diefenbaker said the situation appeared to him to be much like that which prevailed in 1925 when the Liberal Party led by W.L. Mackenzie King made a smaller showing than the Conservatives but chose to stay in office by collaborating with other parties.

Diefenbaker, who was at home in Saskatchewan, indicated his course might be clarified when he holds a Cabinet meeting on his return to Ottawa.

"I will leave to Mr. Diefenbaker to decide what his own responsibility is. I know what mine is," Pearson said.

He expressed belief that Parliament should be called quickly after the Council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization holds a long-scheduled meeting in Ottawa May 22.

The NATO meeting will be looking for Canada's answer to the question whether it should accept nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles based in Canada and for Canadian interceptor forces in Europe.

Diefenbaker has insisted the Bomarc are out of date, or at least serve only as decoys for possible enemy bombing. He made this an issue in the campaign in an underlying current of anti-Americanism—or pro-Canadianism, as Diefenbaker expressed it.

The United States has insisted that Canada is dragging its heels on making good certain commitments for defense, including acceptance of nuclear warheads. Diefenbaker denied this. Pearson said Canada must go ahead with its commitments and then re-examine the situation.

Last June's election gave Diefenbaker only a minority in Parliament, but he commanded the House of Commons for six months with support from two minor parties, Social Credit and the New Democrats. This government was finally defeated in February when the other parties deserted him as a backlash to the nuclear issue and a widespread feeling that Diefenbaker's government was ineffective.

treaty criteria," Stelle said, "we believe there may be in an average year as many as 150 seismic events in the Soviet Union . . . which still remain unidentified."

"Clearly, the attempt to twist Sen. Humphrey's statement in order to try to make the case that he somehow differed with the U.S. delegation on the question of what constitutes an adequate number of inspections, cannot stand close scrutiny on the basis of Sen. Humphrey's own words."

"We hope that in future meetings we will not be treated to such tactics by the Soviet representative."

Stelle again urged Tsarapkin to reply to the many proposals on inspection procedure put forward by the United States and Britain in the past few weeks. Tsarapkin, insisting that the West must first commit itself to a maximum of three inspections a year, has ignored them.

Centenary Wins Over Porkers

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Cecil Upshaw, a 6-6 righthander, struck out 16 Arkansas batters and Don Henry drove in two runs in the 10th inning to give Centenary a 7-5 baseball victory over Arkansas here Monday.

Henry lined a double over second base to score Buck Horn and Upshaw, who had been walked. Upshaw kept the Razorbacks under control until the ninth inning when four straight singles, a double by Jim Bone and Henry's error gave Arkansas a 5-5 tie.

Arkansas' last run came in the bottom of the 10th when Billy Gray tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Jim Jay.

Upshaw was the winning pitcher, Donnie Caple the loser. Centenary 000 103 001 2-7 9 1 Arkansas 000 000 005 1-6 10 2 Upshaw and Lockwood; Cotton, Mulhollan (7), Caple (9) and Elliott.

Publisher to Be Buried Today

JASPER, Ark. (AP)—The publisher of the last handset newspaper in Arkansas was to be buried here today.

J. Milam, 75, died Sunday in a hospital at Harrison. He was publisher of the Newton County Informer, a weekly, at the time of his death.

He moved the Informer from Salem to Jasper in 1932. It was published on a flatbed press in a log cabin near Milam's home, seven miles north of Jasper.

Several years ago the Informer was consolidated with the Newton

Manpower Training Is Big Business

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Manpower training is fast becoming big business in Arkansas, thanks to the federal government.

From a modest program started a year ago, the state faces the coming fiscal year with $741,584 to spend for training.

It already has 639 persons enrolled in courses on 31 projects and nine more projects have been approved.

Federal funds are available under two federal laws — the Area Redevelopment Act and the Manpower Development Training Act. The state has 16 ARA and 15 MDTA projects under way.

It's a co-operative venture between the Education Department, which supervises training, and the Employment Security Division, which selects trainees and pays them a subsistence allowance.

Loron Bolen, ESD director of field operations, supervises the program.

Bolen said unemployed persons get preference on training lists and the man who has been unemployed the longest gets first call.

The program is statewide with current projects at Pine Bluff, Fort Smith, Little Rock, Salem, Forrest City, Trumann, El Dorado, Star City, Hardy, Augusta, Ashdown, Helena, Yellville and Eudora.

Projects have been approved for De Queen, Blytheville, Hot Springs, Benton, Rogers, Russellville and Texarkana and programs have been completed at Huntsville and Clarksville.

Courses offered include practical nursing auto mechanics, auto body work, drafting, stenography, machining, farm equipment operation and mechanics, welding, sewing machine operation and carpentry.

Not all students are eligible for the subsistence allowance. Heads of households and trainees from farm families with total income of less than $1,200 a year are. The maximum allowance is $24 a week, increased from $23 as of April 1.

The ARA and MDTA programs differ slightly. ARA programs are limited to 16 weeks and they may County Times.

Milam is survived by his widow, four sons and two daughters.

THE STORY: Matt Higby is being held on suspicion of homicide after Dennis Hooper was found murdered. Dennis was one of two men who raided the apartment of Miss Frances Terrill the previous day. Matt wants to marry Frances. Dennis is the nephew of Gen. Lee Hooper who allegedly called Matt a "known murderer" and against whom Matt phoned to bring a slander action.

Returns From Extended Tour

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Finis Bailey, 17, a member of the El Dorado High School Oratorio Singers, has returned home from the group's eastern tour—48 days after the other 51 members of the group.

Bailey was struck with pneumonia Feb. 21 at Milton, Pa., last stop on the tour. He was hospitalized at Danville, Pa., where he underwent a life-saving tracheotomy late in February.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bailey, his parents, stayed with him in Danville during his battle with pneumonia and brought him home. He is now well on the way to recovery.

The tour was made at the invitation of the American Association of School Administrators, which was holding its national convention at Atlantic City, N.J.

He was initiated only in areas of substantial and persistent unemployment.

MDTA projects are established anywhere in the state if there is a demand for trained persons in that area and enough applications for training. Courses can last as long as 52 weeks.

Bolen said Arkansas ranks first in the nation in the number of students (318) enrolled in farm machinery courses and stands ninth in the country in percentage participation.

attorney's office was an old friend of mine. We'd been at Columbia Law School together.

Cash and Alec were at the precinct house when I got there. Cash was a youngish man with prematurely iron-gray hair, crew cut. Alec was lolling in a wooden armchair beside the roll-top desk.

"We need your help," Alec said.

I grinned at him. "Defense attorney helping the prosecution?"

"We just want to get at the truth, Mr. Ryan," Cash said. He was moving restlessly up and down behind the desk.

"I haven't heard my client's story," I said.

"There's no question that Dennis Hooper, the deceased, was one of the two raiders — the one who beat up Mrs. Terrill and ripped the front room apart. Not just on General Hooper's word, you understand. Ballard fingerprinted the apartment. He was trying to check out the prints through the FBI Army and other sources. When General Hooper contacted us to report the homicide he told us his nephew had admitted to him an hour or so before that he'd been at the Terrill apartment. We were able to check out quickly then. The Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau had Dennis Hooper's prints on file."

"Why would this Thoroughbred Racing What-Have-You-Dennis Hooper's prints?" I asked.

"Routine," Cash said, impatiently. "Every employee on a member track is finger-printed — hot walkers, grooms, jockey's trainers, office help, mutuel machine operators — everyone. Dennis Hooper was on the General's staff. It was automatic for the TRPB to have his prints on file."

"I'll tell you this first," Alec said, "so you won't be wondering whether the General's story held up. Dennis phoned the General about the raid on the Terrill apartment. He'd gone there on his own authority to try to find something to nail on Matthew Higby. The General, as you know, was gunning for Higby — trying to keep him from qualifying for an owner's license. Dennis reported he hadn't found anything, but he said he might be in trouble if Frances Terrill ever recognized him. The General was outraged."

"He says!"

"He says. He wanted a detailed account of what had happened so he'd know exactly what to do about it. He ordered nephew to stay put where he was — at his apartment. The General broke away from the meeting as soon as he could. It took him 20 minutes to half an hour. Another 15 minutes to get to Dennis Hooper's apartment which is on the upper East Side — East Eighty-ninth Street to be exact. When he got there the General found the front door to Dennis' apartment partly open. Dennis was dead on the floor of the living room, his head smashed in."

"Violently smashed in," Cash said.

"There were no signs of a struggle," Alec went on. "Dennis had been drinking — but apparently alone. Ice cubes broken out in a cooler. One glass. The General called the police."

"No murder weapon," Cash said. "The killer took whatever it was." We think it was a silver candlestick. There was only one of what should have been a pair on the mantel. Only two sets of fingerprints in the place — Dennis Hooper's and a cleaning woman who'd done up the apartment yesterday afternoon."

"The General was apparently grief stricken," Alec said. "Dennis was a wild boy, he told us, but none the less the General's only living relative, heir to the General's not inconsiderable estate."

"The General cleaned up on his war memoirs," Cash said. "Book-of-the-Month, a lush movie sale. Not super-rich, but we estimate he's worth half to three-quarters of a million bucks."

"He told us about the raid on the Terrill apartment," Alec said. "Higby had applied for a license to race Thoroughbreds. The TRPB had given him a clean bill of health. But the General knew, he said, just by chance, that Higby had once been a bootlegger and connected with the rackets. He wasn't satisfied with the TRPB report. He put Dennis on the Higby trail and they came up with Mrs. Frances Terrill."

"Dennis must have thought he might find something in the Terrill apartment to connect Higby with the rackets," said Cash.

CHATTER

By "BILL"

Some time ago we received a little cartoon thru the mail, a picture of a woman trying on hats. The sales girl standing there with a glib smile scattered around, had a very unhappy look on her face. The verse beneath says:

You wonder why a customer tries on a hundred hats,
Don't be so dumb . . . the customer, like you, is slightly bats!

Well, that figures, and frankly it does not surprise us one bit because if you could see all the beautiful hats in Raley's Style Shoppe, you would go way out too!

There is a perfectly ridiculous one made entirely of flowers, fits the head like a wig and believe it or not . . . it is most becoming. The big, rough straw sailors turn up all the way round and when perched far back on the head, give that little-girl look. The turban, straw and fabric would gracefully to shape the head, influenced by Lawrence of Arabia, has a romantic look (makes you feel that way, too!) If you would like to add a few inches to your height, choose the highborne straw with very narrow brim. A single band of bright ribbon makes it a perfect hat to wear with suits.

Yes, there are flowers and feathers, whips of veiling and bows, almost anything you desire . . . all to be found in the new spring millinery and we have a beautiful collection for your choice and approval.

To wear with this new hat, a suit designed by Briney Martin of silk and wool blends or a costume dress with a full length coat. You can find the style most flattering to you in Raley's Style Shoppe large collection of suits and dresses.

There are so many other things; you will love them all, and we would enjoy showing you: Only four days before Easter. Shop today. The place is Raley's Style Shoppe. Hope's House of Fashion.

Gregory Peck Finally Gets That Oscar

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (P)—Gregory Peck, a four-time loser in the Oscar finals, and Anne Bancroft, an actress Hollywood once ignored, are winners of the movie's best actor and best actress awards for 1962.

"Lawrence of Arabia" was named the year's best film Monday night at the 35th annual Academy Awards ceremony, and a grandfather, Ed Begley, and a teen-ager, Patty Duke, won best supporting actor and actress honors.

Miss Duke, who played the child Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker," is the first juvenile ever to win an Academy Award. Shirley Temple, among others, have received honorary awards in the past.

In a glamor-packed setting at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, the taciturn Peck confessed that he came to the show "prepared to be a graceful loser."

"I'm just a little stunned about the whole thing. It really staggered me," Peck said.

Then he pulled out a gold pocket watch from his vest. "Harper Lee mailed it to me just this morning. She said it belonged to her father and he wore it for 60 years and she wanted me to wear it to the Academy Awards. She also said she dropped it in the grave when she was 6 years old. I was clutching it when my name was called."

Miss Lee is the author of the Pulitzer Prize-winning "To Kill a Mockingbird," based on childhood reminiscences of her father, a small-town Southern lawyer. Peck played the father in the movie.

Miss Bancroft, who portrayed Annie Sullivan, the tenacious teacher of the blind and deaf Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker," was busy Monday night on the New York stage — where she became a star after years in B movies. Joan Crawford accepted the Oscar for her.

Early in the night, as technical awards were announced, it looked like a sweep for "Lawrence of Arabia."

It almost was. The $12-million movie of the mysterious World War I hero won seven Oscars for sound, film editing, music score, color art direction, cinematography, best director (Britisher David Lean) and best movie.

The best song award went to "Days of Wine and Roses" from the movie of the same name. The music was written by Henry Mancini and the lyrics by Johnny Mercer.

Dentists Can Give Pain Free 'Shots'

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A recently developed surface anesthetic now permits dentists to give actual pain-free injections, an Army dentist said today.

Col. Robert B. Shira, chief of oral surgery at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, told the Arkansas Dental Association that the surface anesthetic, a thin plastic sheet or gum, is applied directly to the gums.

The film dissolves rapidly, producing profound surface anesthesia, he said.

"The dentist is then able to inject through this area without pain and obtain deeper anesthesia required for various dental operations," he said.

Rockefeller Says He's Not a Candidate

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, still insisting he is not a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, made a tremendous impression on the Executive Committee of the Nebraska Republican party during a week-end Midwestern swing.

That appraisal came from State Chairman Robert Denney of Fairbury after Rockefeller met with the committee Saturday afternoon. The things the New Yorker said, Denney commented, "definitely fit in with by definition of a conservative Republican."

Nebraska's conservative Republican segment is large and influential in state politics.

In the evening, Rockefeller gave a standing welcome from a big dinner honoring Nebraska Sen. Roman Hruska. The response to Shira said the day is approaching when dentists won't need needles for local anesthetics. Experiments are underway on a jet-propulsion type of syringe which will blow the anesthetic solution into the tissue through a tiny nozzle in the tip of the instrument—painlessly.

"If the word needle could be removed from dentistry," Shira said, "it would undoubtedly open the doors to many people who put off going to the dentist because of fear of the dentist's needle."

Shira said there is increasing evidence that more and more allergic reactions to narcotic and biotic drugs are occurring. Some of them are extremely serious and may result in death, he said.

Use of the drugs following minor surgical procedures that would not cause heating difficulties should be avoided, he said.

Card Plant to Allow Election

OSCEOLA, Ark. (AP)—The American Greeting Card Corp. plant at Osceola has agreed to allow employees to hold an election on whether they want representation by the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Papermill workers.

Plant Manager James Williams said the company agreed to hold the election to give employees a chance to show outside union organizations that they want no union representation. The election will be held April 25.

A National Labor Relations Board examiner has recommended that the company cease interfering with union attempts to organize workers. The NLRB held a hearing on a petition by the union to hold the election.

His speech was polite but not particularly demonstrative, newsmen agreed. In it, Rockefeller pictured himself as a budget-balancing, fiscally conscious governor.

Earlier in a statement, Rockefeller said achievement of a more rapid rate of economic growth "is our nation's No. 1 domestic problem."

He called for a reduction in corporation taxes from 52 to 47 percent and a $7.5 billion cut in personal income taxes, both effective next July 1.

BUILD YOUR OWN LIFE
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Is true love selfish? I'm a 14-year-old girl, an only child, who lives in a big house and has everything she wants except love. It isn't that my parents don't love me or I them. But I'm never part of their lives. They talk and laugh and have such fun but never include me. Try as I will to join in they always treat me as an outside.

Father is the possessive type. He keeps my mother all to himself, won't let anybody else dance with her, even at parties.

I have all and more than any young teenager could want: pretty clothes, an expensive record player and the latest records; a saddle horse and spending money. But when I explain that what I want more than anything else is affection, they listen politely, say, "You've got ours," then go on talking to each other.

I realize I'm at a difficult age, perhaps oversensitive, too. But I do feel so left out of our home life. I'm just about as welcome as a third person would be on a honeymoon. How can I change my lonely life? —Affection Wanted

Dear Affection Wanted: Love wears many faces. Your parents limit theirs to one aspect. Love in the highest, or spiritual sense, is selfless. To break up this love idol of your parents would only make them and you unhappy. Be thankful that they do care so deeply. Show tact and understanding by leaving them to one another. Loneliness is hard to take but there are compensations. If lonely enough, you will create a life of your own. The very doing will give you initiative, self-reliance and independence. Once you build a place for yourself in this world, your success will attract their attention and, in the end, they will probably look to you for love and protection.

At 14 you should know what you want to do in life. Once you decide, discuss your hopes with your teachers. Ask their help in channeling studies. Take your parents into your confidence on any long-range plans. Your clear-thinking and aggressiveness will impress them, regardless of their absorption in each other. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Ambition."

Dear Helen: I am very self-conscious about a disfiguring scar on my face and, though my husband never mentions it, I think he is too. Removal of the scar and restoration of the skin tissue involves a very delicate operation because of certain nerves in the area. In addition, the cost would be high. My husband says he loves me as I am. Would it be wiser to go through life as this inarticulate, self-conscious, inhibited creature who is as different from the real me as night from day, or risk the danger and the money in the hope of becoming my true self again? Wretched Dear Wretched: Personally, I would take the risk if only to recover self-confidence. No matter what your husband says, that scar is bound to make you increasingly inhibited, as time goes on. To obliterate it could change the whole course of your life for the better. But, before taking the final step, explore all aspects of plastic surgery. Write to the American Association for Plastic Surgeons, 525 East 68th Street, New York 21, N.Y., and ask them to recommend a plastic surgeon in your area.

CONFIDENTIAL:

Hurting: Pay no attention to those rumors and half rumors. Ignore the girl who spreads them. She's jealous.

Gus: Harmless friendships often wind up in disaster, especially when the girl dates the boy secretly in his car. Your father is right!

Wondering: If you're not in love, why tie yourself down? Going steady before you've met enough boys to acquire a standard of comparison is plain silly. Wait till you're 17 or 18 then play the field. Time enough after that for serious dating.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Red Note Involves Nuclear Weapons

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union handed the United States a note today and diplomatic sources said it concerned the North Atlantic Treaty Organization alliance nuclear weapons and West Germany.

Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko handed the note to U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler. Copies were sent to Britain and France, and the West German Embassy was understood to have received a separate note.

The embassies concerned declined to disclose details.

Awards Show Is Always Fascinating

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—That annual spring rite of Hollywood, the awarding of the Motion Picture Academy's statuettes, may not be television's best show of the year, but it always has a certain fascination.

There's the mounting excitement about the top awards, of course. Even more, there are the stars to see and for the ladies of the home audience, there are the stars' dresses. It's a long two hours, but still it's sort of fun.

Monday night the ABC production started out rather dimly. The cameras were out of focus and the sound was fuzzy.

When they cleared up, Frank Sinatra was off to a rather out-of-focus start. As master of ceremonies, he gave a little lecture in show biz slang on making better pictures in Hollywood, using the "Mona Lisa" as an example.

At one point, he referred to La Gioconda as "that chick," but the laughs never came.

But his material, too, cleared up a little as the ceremony went along.

The show sped along at a no-nonsense clip. The greatest improvement was grouping the songs rather than singing them interminably through the evening.

The entire television industry had been badly shaken and upset by revelations during the congressional hearings on the operations of the ratings services. Network television, in particular, has had a tendency to lean heavily on estimates of audience sizes made by the research companies.

"The numbers game" has been the single most important factor in persuading most sponsors to buy programs and has been all-important in determining whether a series was canceled early in the season.

The Washington hearings have revealed some enormous holes in the fabric of broadcast audience sampling. The problem is what to do about it, because obviously stations and sponsors must have some way of finding out how many people are getting their expensive messages.

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY

President Hurls First Ball to Open Season

By JIM BECKER

Associated Press Sports Writer

President Kennedy, who says he has his good months and his bad ones, and the Washington Senators, who have mostly had ones, are off and losing in the American League race.

The active baseball season is all over for the President, but the Senators, last a year ago, have 161 games to go.

The Baltimore Orioles, on the strength of two quick home runs in the second inning and the fact that most of the Washingtons hit the ball squarely at somebody, tripped the Senators 3-1 in the traditional opener in the national capital Monday.

There were 43,000 on hand, including the President, who first and only pitch was low and wide. In the National League, the Cincinnati Reds, the pennant pick in many circles, got off winging with a 5-2 victory over the revamped Pittsburgh Pirates.

The other American League teams open the long campaign today.

The New York Yankees begin their drive for a fourth straight flag at Kansas City. Although for a while this spring they had an injury list almost as long as the roster, only Roger Maris, hampered by a pulled left leg muscle, and pitching ace Whitey Ford, who has a sore left shoulder, will miss the opener. Ralph Terry, 23-12, will pitch for the Yanks against Diego Segui, 8-5.

Ray Herbert, 20-9, will pitch for the Chicago White Sox against Bill Bunning, 19-10, at Detroit. Bill Monbouquette, 15-13, will be on the mound for the Boston Red Sox against Ken McBride, 11-5, in Los Angeles, and Jim Grant, 7-10, will hurl for the Cleveland Indians against Camilo Pascual, 20-11, for the home Minnesota Twins, in the other opener.

The Senators and Orioles will be idle.

There are five games on the National League slate—the defending champion San Francisco Giants at Houston, Milwaukee at Pittsburgh, the Los Angeles Dodgers at the Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati at Philadelphia at night and the St. Louis Cardinals at New York.

Lefty Steve Barber won the opener for the Orioles, but he had his troubles. The fastballer, who was in the Army much of last season and then got sick when he came back full time, was not overly sharp.

He gave up only seven hits, but the Senators hammered the ball hard. Stu Miller came on in the ninth inning, after a lead-off double by Minnie Minoso, and got the side out.

All the Baltimore scoring was packed into a second-inning burst. With Don Rudolph, the loser, on the mound, Jim Gentile led off with a homer over the fence in right field. Al Smith drew a walk, and Boog Powell homered to the same place. The Orioles collected only four more hits.

Washington, presenting an almost completely new cast, got its run in the fifth inning, when Larry Osborne singled and Don Leppert doubled him to third. He scored on an infield out.

Aussie Boxer Suffers a Concussion

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another Australian boxer was stricken after a ring heading and was taken to a hospital with a mild concussion today, as investigations into the recent rash of boxing deaths were pushed on several fronts.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore also launched a new attack against boxing, calling it a "means of useless massacre."

The boxer, Australian bantam-weight champion Billy Males, was taken to St. George's Hospital in Sydney, where his condition was listed as not serious.

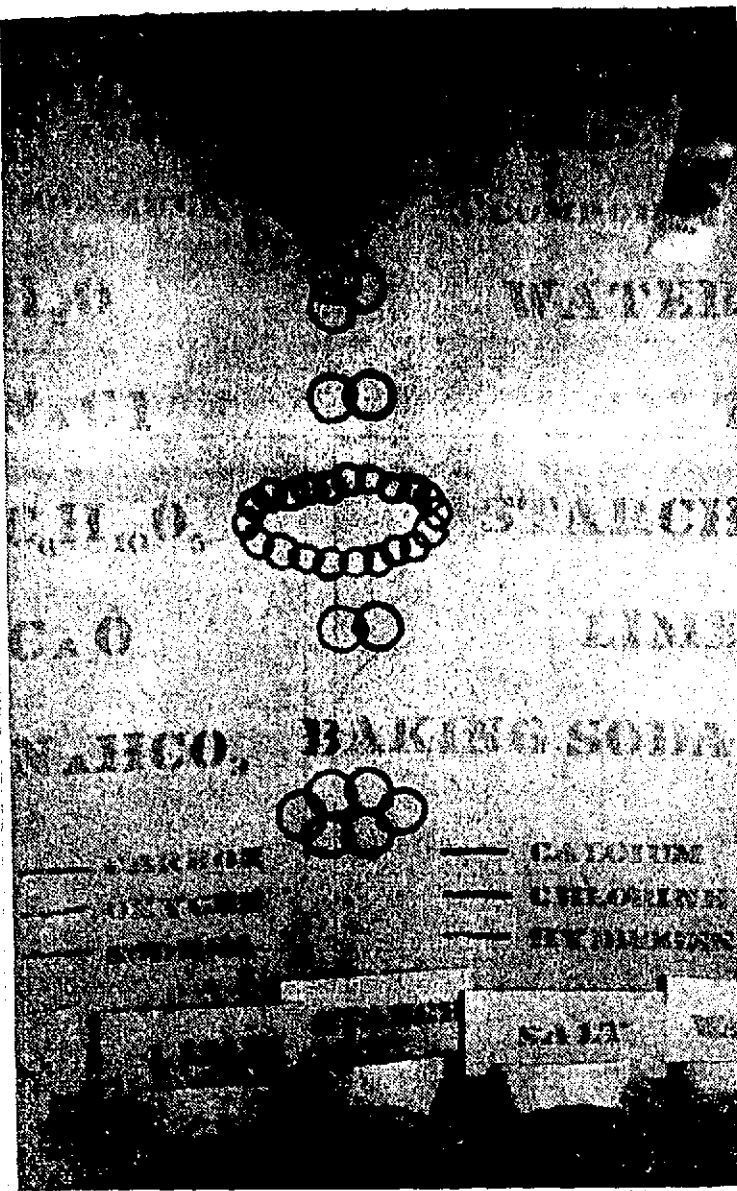

Males began vomiting after the lost a 12-round decision to Gene Aragon of the Philippines.

Two Australian boxers, two New Zealanders and one American, died of ring injuries last week, along with Francisco Velasquez, 19, a Puerto Rican in the U.S. Army, who died after an amateur bout in California. Pa.

Velasquez' death was the fifth of the year, including featherweight champion Dave Moore, who died March 25, four days after he lost his title to Segun Roman in Los Angeles.

In the aftermath of the death in Pennsylvania, the Rev. Joseph T. Conboy, moderator of activities at St. Michael's School for Boys at Hoban Heights said the school has dropped boxing.

Winners at the Science Fair

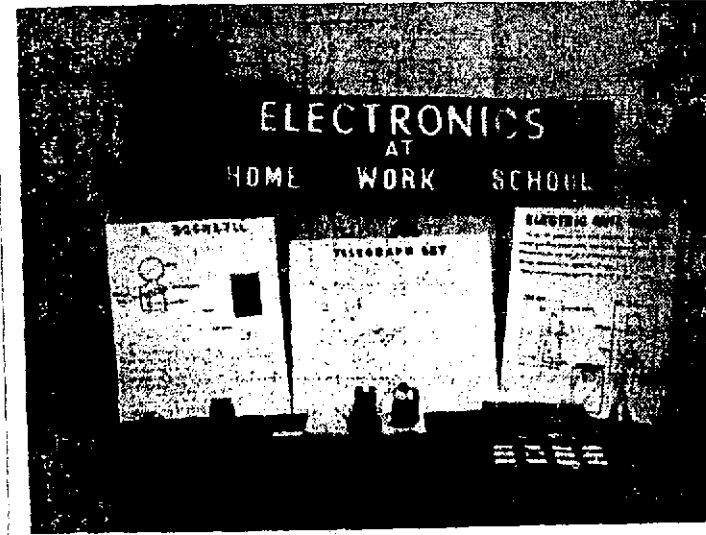

Palmas was host to the elementary science division of the rural meet last week with Blevins, Spring Hill, Okay, Palmas and Guernsey participating.

During the judging period visitors were entertained with science skits presented by Blevins, Spring Hill and Guernsey. There were six divisions with first and second place winners. Judges were Mrs. Turner and Mr. Slaton. Mrs. Clyde Mosier served visiting teachers.

First place winner in Earth Science Division, element combination, Spring Hill, 4, 5 and 6th grades.

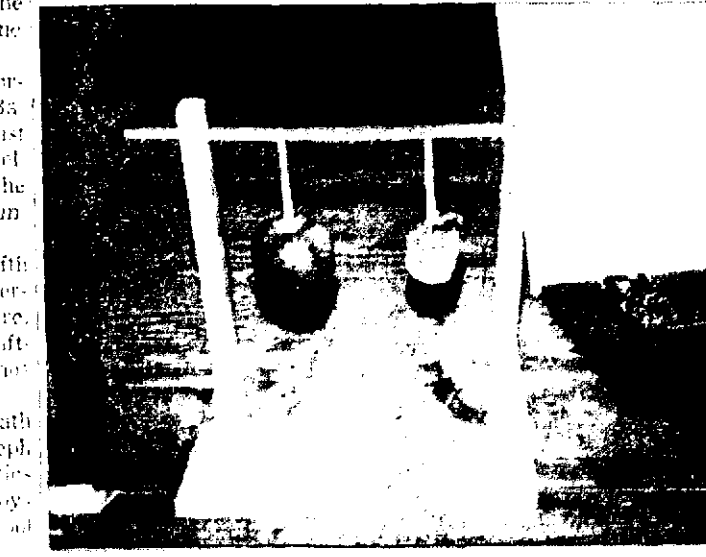

Grades 1, 2 and 3 of Okay placed first in the plants division with "Our Plants."

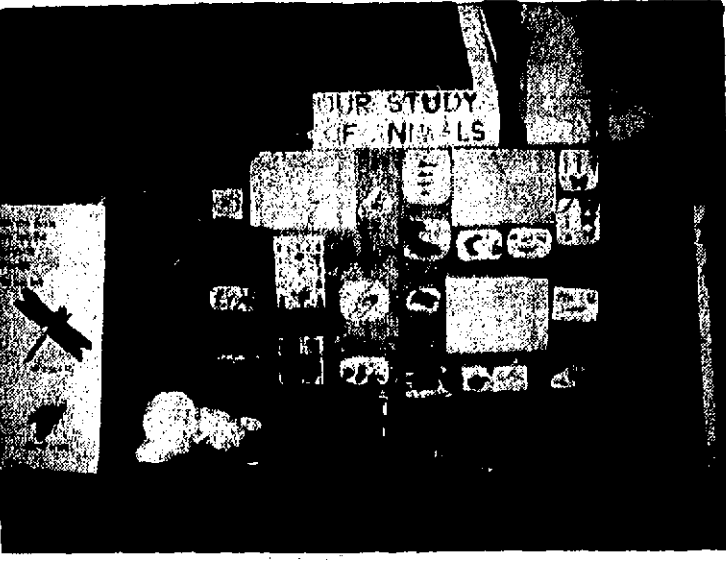

Grades 4, 5 and 6 of Okay placed first in the electronics division with "Electronics at Home, School, and at Work."

Know Your Rocks, Fossils and Minerals was the first place winner in the earth science division by grades 1, 2 and 3 of Okay.

Guernsey's 4, 5 and 6 grades placed first in the health division, "The Purpose of the Skin."

Okay's 1, 2 and 3rd grades won first in the animals division with "Our Study of Animals."

set of statistics to criticize the work of referees Sid Borgia and Norm Drucker in Sunday night's 109-99 Cincinnati victory.

"We just want a 50-50 chance from the officials," said Auerbach.

"Cincinnati has played three good games in this series they've won. Two of them were great. The Royals were not so great last (Sunday) night but got some help from the officials."

Redlegs Open Bid for Nat'l Flag With Win

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson played a punctuation game in his player rating book today, straightening the question marks following the names of Frank Robinson, Gene Freese and Pete Rose into big, fat exclamation points.

Robinson provided the power and Freese and Rose handled the finesse as the Reds began their bid for the National League pennant with a 5-2 victory Monday over the revamped Pittsburgh Pirates in the traditional baseball opener before 28,896 at Crosley Field.

In the traditional American League opener at Washington, before 43,022, President Kennedy threw out the first ball, but Jim Gentile and Boog Powell hit two balls out of the park for a 3-1 Baltimore triumph.

The rest of the AL gets underway today with the New York Yankees at Kansas City, Chicago at Detroit, Cleveland at Minnesota and Boston at Los Angeles in the only night game.

The Reds will help Philadelphia open its schedule in a night after the rest of the league gets underway with an afternoon program that has Los Angeles at Chicago, San Francisco at Houston, Milwaukee at Pittsburgh and St. Louis at New York.

The Reds made good use of their head start as Robinson belted a first-inning two-run homer that sent Cincinnati ahead to stay while Rose and Freese piled up the doubleplays in support of Jim O'Toole's six-hit pitching.

Robinson hit under .200 last April and seemed headed for another slow start when he came up with a sore shoulder in spring

Sikes Lead Hog

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas beat Texas A&M 3½-2½ in a Southwest Conference golf match here Monday.

The results:

R. H. Sikes of Ralph Johnson, AIM, 4 and 2; Mike Higgins of Fred Rose, Ark., 7 and 6; Richard McCauley of Gene Byrd, AIM, 4 and 2; and Harry Hoskins of Kenny Oliver, Ark., 3 and 2. McCauley and Oliver of Byrd and Hoskins, 3 and 2; Sikes and Rose split with Higgins and Johnson.

Sikes, of Springdale, Ark., just back from the Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga., was medalist with a par 7. He finished in a tie for 46th place in the Masters.

training.

But the slugging outfielder who wound up batting .342 with 39 homers and 136 runs batted in as the Reds finished third last year, slashed a line drive in his first at bat, off Pittsburgh starter Earl Francis.

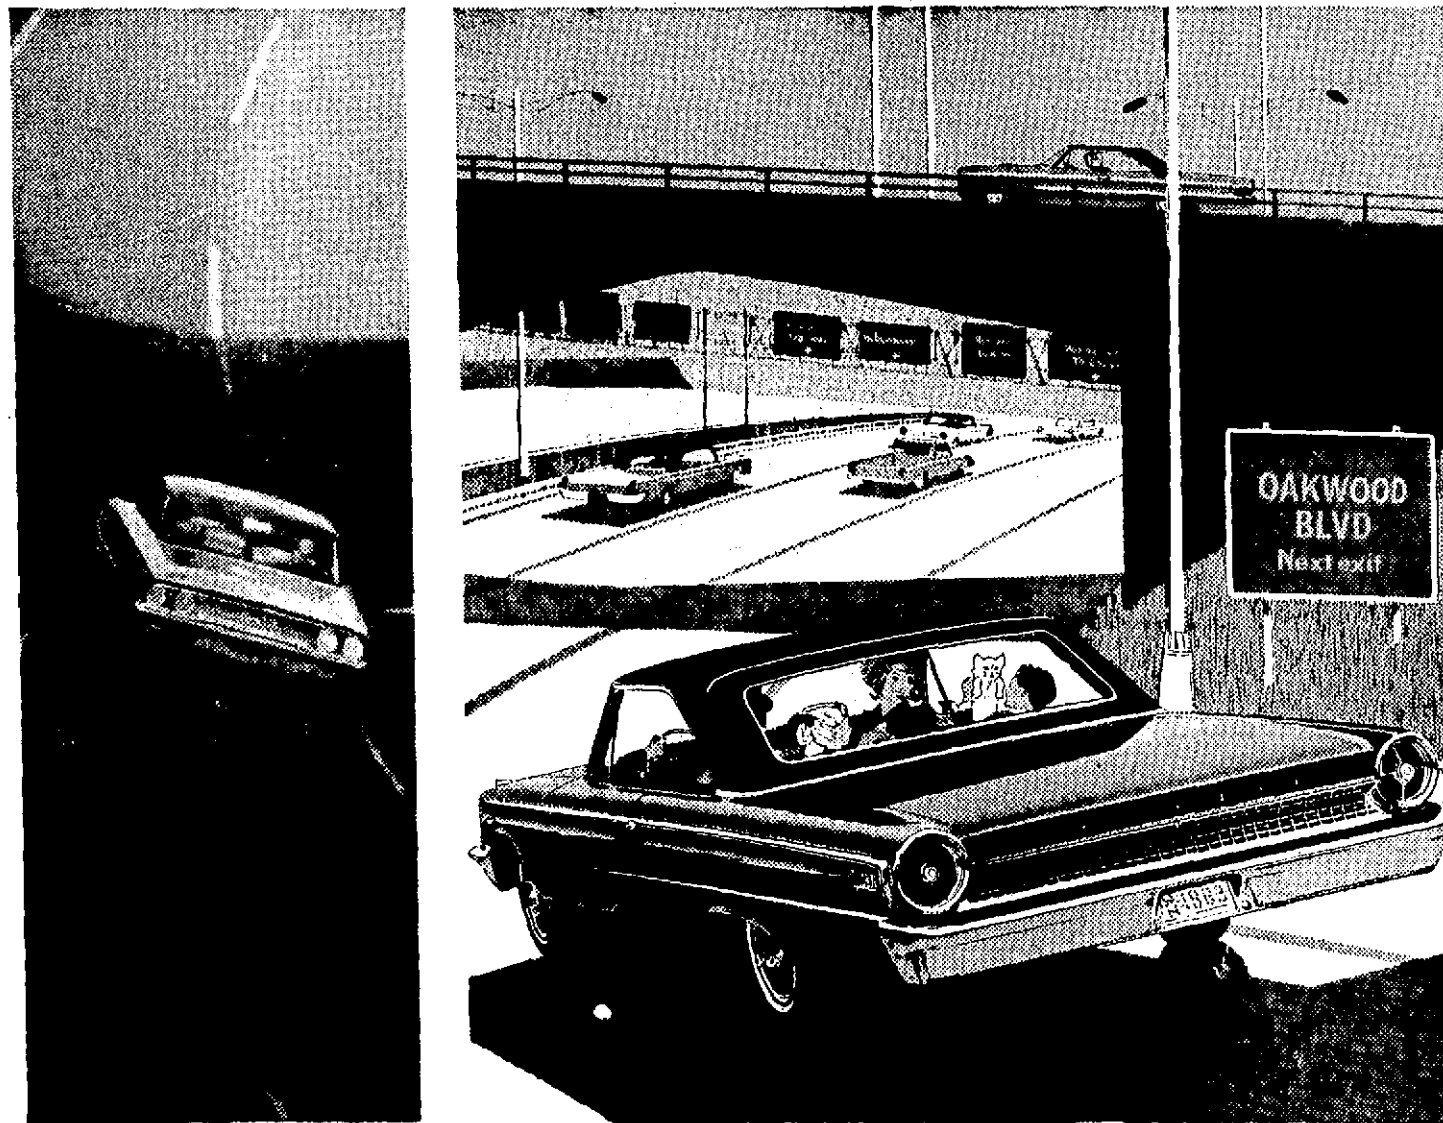

Freese, virtually a complete loss to the Reds last year after he suffered a broken leg in spring training, legged out an infield hit in a two-run second inning uprising and moved well on the doubleplay by starting one.

Rose, a rookie not even on the Reds' roster, started at second base in place of veteran Don Blasingame, was involved in three smooth doubleplays and drew a walk before Robinson's homer.

Leo Cardenas' two-run second inning single and Gordie Coleman's homer in the sixth accounted for the Reds' other runs. Donn Clendenen's homer in the fourth got the Pirates started. Bob Halley scored the other run in the seventh when he singled and moved around on a balk, a walk and an error by O'Toole.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

YOU'LL KNOW WHY FORD SWEEP THE FIRST FIVE PLACES AT DAYTONA...WHEN YOUR '63 FORD IS STILL GOING STRONG YEAR AFTER YEAR

Daytona's big, banked oval puts unbelievable stresses and strains on engines, steering gears and frames. The Fords that won at Daytona took all the punishment this famous track could dish out over 500 miles of grueling competition without missing a beat.

In this toughest of all stock car events, mechanical failures claimed over fifty per cent of the starting field. But of twelve Fords entered, nine went the distance. Ford took six of the first ten places.

Five-hundred-mile events like Daytona are a public demonstration of toughness, reliability and sheer engineering excellence that are part of the new generation of Fords. A test like this can't be duplicated on anybody's testing grounds—it's run right out in the open. Any car can enter. But only the car that has the best total combination of strength, balance, precision control and road-clinging suspension can win... that's what we mean by total performance.

Visit your Ford Dealer before you buy any other new car. Here's what you'll find: a new kind of total car durability, a new kind of handling ability, a suspension that is startlingly smooth yet sticks to the road like tar. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember, it's built by Ford, it's built for performance... total performance!
